

I am sending this comment so that you, the FCC would not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protection.

The current Indiana Telephone Privacy law has improved my time at home. I don't have to put up with all the phone solicitors pestering me.

The Indiana law has been very effective; I used to receive 12 calls per week, now I only receive one.

Why would you want to change this? I currently feel that this has been a very good thing in the reduction of solicitors intruding into my life. If I want to purchase something, or find out about something, I go to my local merchants or the Internet to find or purchase them. I do not like getting phone calls from businesses trying to sell me a cemetery plot, or get another credit card, or to save me money buying something that I don't really care about. This form of solicitation was an intrusion into my life, and I don't want it back.
